Directors' Notes

This has been an amazing experience, and I'm not sure where to begin...

When we discussed presenting Les Mis sometime last fall, I thought "what on earth am I thinking"? This show is such a large undertaking and there are so many "what if's", that I was just scared to death to even attempt it. It is, by far, the largest show I've ever directed, and my biggest fear as a director is making it as real as it can be. This show is so well known and so revered in the musical theatre community, that if you cannot do it justice, then you probably shouldn't try. I have been extremely blessed in the cast, the crew, and the staff here at the RRCA, and without their hard work and dedication to the theatre, I'm not sure what I would do. The show you are about to see is a dark tale of war, redemption, romance, and death. But, the heartwarming part of it all, is that the show has a wonderful message of hope that runs throughout. Sometimes in life, bad things happen, but if one does not try to get through the bad, one will never see the good. And the subject matter is not light, but these kids have really risen to the occasion. Many of them, obviously, do not have life experience to back up their performance, so they have done a wonderful job at interpreting the piece and presenting a wonderful show. I could not be more proud of the work you are about to see. All throughout my work on the show, I've had the song "One Day More" from the Act I Finale running through my head. With everything from casting the show, to getting the staging done, to costuming the cast, to working on the program, I kept thinking, if I just had one day more... and most importantly, if I just had one day more...to spend with this cast....

I love you guys and it has been an absolute honor to work with you.
